

Lesson 4: Getting a Speeding Ticket with Pat

Jimmy Delaney

Pat notoriously was late. She would never tell you this, but she was always late. And she was always running behind and always kind of doing makeup in the car and all of that.

And so anytime that was happening, if I was with her, I would always say, "Let me drive and you go in the passenger seat." And we were late. And she told me to get there as quick as I could because she didn't want to be late and didn't want that kind of image on her or whatever it was.

And so, we were driving and I was going well above the speed limit. And next thing I know, the red and blue lights are behind us. And I was like, "Pat, we're getting pulled over." And she's like, "All right, we'll pull over."

And so, we pull over and I knew I was doing almost double the speed limit. And I was like, "This is going to be really, really bad." And I'm starting to dig out my ID and all of this kind of stuff. And the officer was walking up with a very angry look on his face because he was pulling over a very nice car that was going way too fast.

And I rolled down the window and before I could say a word, Pat from the passenger seat leans over against me and almost kind of like pushes me back into the seat. She's like, "Officer, I'm sorry. It's all my fault. I'm late. And I just, you know, we were trying to get there as quick as we could."

And the officer never made eye contact with me, straight to Pat. And he's like, "Now coach, you know you're not supposed to be driving that fast," as if I was like a ghost driving the car or whatever it was.

She was like, "I know, I'm so sorry. We're just trying to get to West Knoxville for this thing. I promise I won't do it again."

And he's like, "All right, coach. Good to see you. Good luck this season."

And so, I'm sitting there like, "What in the world just happened here?" And I roll the window back up and I look at her, and she goes back and she goes, "Hit it." And we just took off.
