

Lesson 8: My First Meeting with Pat

Petra Dunn

I remember the first time I met Pat. I was so intimidated. She was a new client and I went to see her and here I am meeting with this legendary coach, coach of the century as a matter of fact, and I'm bringing her advice and guidance.

And I was going into the meeting thinking she would pick everything apart and analyze every detail. And on the contrary, she was so humble and so respectful and recognized that she said, "Patricia, you're the professional. I've got to trust you and what you tell me."

It was really humbling for me because of the respect she gave. And it taught me to exemplify that in my own career and to the other people that I can mentor along the way. So, I thank her for that and giving me that feeling of just being the one in the room that she was able to just say, "You're the professional. I'm going to trust you."

So that was a great memory for me.
