

Pat in Her Own Words: Change Is a Must

Coach Pat Summitt

What you have to do to stay motivated is, you have to find new ways to challenge people. And maybe that challenges you. But you have to find those new ways.

I am constantly learning from other people. Coach (John) Wooden, what a master mind. (He's) one of the wisest individuals I've ever been around. And to just hear him speak motivates me. But to find new ways to say the same thing you've been saying for 30 years in a different way. We get tired of hearing us, don't we? So I'm constantly trying to look for ways to improve in the off-season.

I promised our team, 'I will be better next year. Will you be better?' Because everyone should want to continue to improve. And everyone should realize that you may have to change to get better. I think that's what I realized.
